There is an omission in the act amending the election law in Battle's Revisal, chap. 237, acts of 1874 and '75. Chapter 52 of of Battle's Revisal is properly amended, and the time for the Sheriffs in the several senatorial districts to assemble is definitely stated; but chapter 22 is not alluded to, and therefore the time for the sheriffs in the congressional districts to meet and compare the vote is left unaltered. Upon compeiring chapter 237, acts 1874 and '75, with chapter 52 of Battle's Revisal it will be seen that the same ratio of time between the election and the meeting of the commission-
